House 3009 Space Font Kit

Based on intelligence gathered by a deep space investigative probe, House Industries presents the House 3009 font kit. This intergalactic collection originates from complex alien signals which have been decoded, phonologically transliterated and returned to earth as proprietary letter forms. The kit includes eight fonts, 99 dingbats, six patterns, a scale replica of the House 3009 spacecraft (pictured above) as well as a crew uniform t-shirt. The multi-session CD-ROM contains House 3009 font data plus seven Peter Thomas remix tracks from Coldcut, Stereolab, Yoshinori Sunahara, John McEntire and more courtesy of Bungalow records.

The Sign Painter Font Kit

For decades, the handletterer's craft has been indispensable to the advertising and design trades. As prevailing tastes changed and new technologies emerged, commercial art saw the fateful demise of this lost skill. Now, House Industries is proud to offer the Sign Painter font kit, a collection of six timeless display typefaces along with an assortment of eye-catching advertising type treatments in eps format. In addition to a scripty House Sign Painter t-shirt, we've also included the handy Lil' Al's Brush utility. Named after Lil' Al, the man whose signwriting inspired this font collection, Lil' Al's Brush automatically connects ligatures and gives the two scripts in this kit a true hand-rendered look.

The Typography of Coop Kit

The amazing hand-rendered lettering from Coop's famous silk-screened rock posters can now be yours! This devilishly clever font collection includes eight versatile display typefaces derived from Coop's morally bankrupt yet aesthetically rich portfolio of artwork. If the eight fonts aren't temptation enough, we've sweetened the pot with a custom Coop cigar box, a one-of-a-kind Typography of Coop Zippo® lighter (available only in this House font kit), a big La Plata cigar (hand picked by Coop himself) and a black Typography of Coop t-shirt. There's no need to sell your soul for truly animated typefaces when you can make a deal with House Industries for just $199.

The House Streetvan Font Kit

Young or old, male or female, people from all walks of life are joining the vanning craze that's sweeping the nation! Whether you're taking a weekend trip to the beach or just out "trollin' for tuna," the Street Van's six "hopped-up" typefaces have the power to leave your competition laggin' and the looks to leave 'em gaspin'. We originally drew these characters as type treatments for the now famous Custom Papers Group swatchbooks and promotions a few years back. Due to popular demand, we developed these six head-turnin' typefaces and this full-custom Street Van packaging for those vanners looking to add a little "flair" to their layouts. Lou's standing by right now with his hot glue gun waiting to build a custom cardboard Street Van just for you!

The House Gothic Font Family

The House Gothic family is a revival of a mid-century typeface based on original renderings by journeyman commercial artist Alger Zircus. While his career culminated in the late 1960s with an untimely death, Zircus' typographic legacy lives on in the House Gothic collection. This "mod" 13-font family includes four alternate lowercases in light and bold versions plus black and 3-D weights.

The Bad Neighborhood Fonts

Yes sir, now you too can pack heat with The Bad Neighborhood font kit! The Bad Neighborhood features the infamous Crackhouse (the font everyone loves), eps clip-art, eight other beat-down typefaces and a Bad Hood t-shirt. ## House Scrawl Font Collection

In public places throughout the world lie the most spontaneous forms of typography. You've seen the scrawl of impromptu messages carved into wooden desks, scratched into the enamel of bathroom stalls and written inside of phone booths. House Industries is proud to offer the Scrawl font collection with 12 legible, slightly inconsistent PostScript typefaces plus the "Household Items" clip-art font and the sketchy looking Scrawl House Factory t-shirt.

The House Latino! Font Family

So named for their wedge-shaped serifs, Latin typefaces became synonymous with the renewed popularity of Afro-Cuban sounds in the American music scene during the '50s and early '60s. Whatever the case may be, the revival of these exciting typefaces is due to the efforts of House "artista" Christian Schwartz. True to their colorful history, they still retain the same buoyancy and irresistible charm as their predecessors.

The House General Collection

From the ubiquitous to the ridiculous, chances are you'll find an appropriate font in this rare ensemble to help you face a variety of design challenges. Like 'em or not, these classic House Industries originals have been a mainstay of American advertising since their introduction in 1993, and, much to the chagrin of the "design establishment," show no signs of fading any time soon. We are now offering the General Collection (every font listed to the right) for only $250. That's less than five bucks a font!
